If inventors cannot be present at the Sustainability Festival on Sunday 14 March 2010, please deliver inventions and posters to Coal Creek Community Park & Museum (PO Box 193 or South Gippsland Highway, Korumburra) by Wednesday 10 March 2010.

Objective: Invent and build a water-saving device that conserves water in the house, backyard, on the farm, in the chook house or cowshed, at school or in the workplace
OR

Use recycled materials to make a working model of a water-saving device that someone else has already invented (please bring along a picture/print out of the original version)

Bring your invention (and your parents/guardians) along to the Sustainability Festival at Coal Creek on Sunday 14 March 2010.

Please write an A4 page describing the websites or books you have consulted, what you discovered and how these gave you ideas. You may like to include a sketch of your model, highlighting any important design features or types of materials you have chosen to use.

Inventions will be judged in the following categories:

- Best invention, by age level
- Best use of materials
- Most likely to be used by lots of people
- Best design feature
- Best model

Prizes will be awarded on the day.

Hint: If you are not sure where to begin, look up these terms on your favourite search engine – toilet tank bank, water butt, storm water pollution, reduce/reuse/recycle, water conservation. Or start surfing at www.southeastwater.com.au, www.savewater.com.au, or www.eartheasy.com/live_water_saving.htm

See you at the Sustainability Festival on Sunday 14 March 2010, at Coal Creek Community Park & Museum, Korumburra.

Don't forget to bring your A4 page, your invention and your parents/guardians!
